Website Disclaimer

Notice: Alabama Rules of Professional Conduct, Rule 7.2 [e]

The material on this web site has been prepared by the Ford Firm. The material is for informational purposes only and does not constitute legal advice. The material does not necessarily reflect the opinions of the Ford Firm or any of its attorneys or clients, and is not guaranteed to be correct, complete, or up to date.

The information contained herein presents general information about my law practice and is not intended to constitute legal advice. Before acting on any of the information presented here, you should seek legal counsel. This information is not intended to substitute for obtaining legal advice from an attorney. Each person's legal needs are unique, and these materials may not be applicable to your legal situation. No person should act or rely on any information in this site without seeking the advice of an attorney.

We invite you to contact us and welcome your calls, letters, and electronic mail. Please realize, however, that merely contacting us does not create an attorney-client relationship. Furthermore, transmission of the material on this site is not intended to create, and receipt does not constitute, an attorney-client relationship. Please therefore refrain from sending any confidential information to us until such time as an attorney-client relationship has been established.

If you communicate with us through this site or otherwise in connection with a matter for which we do not already represent you, it is possible that your communication may not be treated as privileged or confidential. If you communicate with us by e-mail on a matter for which we already represent you, please remember that Internet e-mail is not secure and you should avoid sending sensitive or confidential Internet e-mail messages unless they are adequately encrypted. Nevertheless, we will respond by e-mail to your e-mail inquiry, unless you ask us to respond in some other way.

Please be aware that the transmission of an e-mail inquiry itself does not create an attorney-client relationship. The Ford Firm cannot serve as your counsel in any matter unless you and our firm expressly agree in writing that we serve as your attorney. You should also be aware that the Statute of Limitations (the deadline imposed by law within which you may bring a lawsuit) may severely limit the time remaining for you to file any potential claims you may have.

If you are interested in having us represent you in a legal matter, the best way to initiate possible representation is to speak with us by phone first. Representation begins when a written contract for legal services has been fully executed between the attorney and client.

Hiring a lawyer is an important decision that should not be based solely upon written information contained on this site concerning my qualifications and experience.
